

JONES FUSSELL, LLP

Bailey Dirmann Morse

Bailey Dirmann Morse joined Jones Fussell in 2008. Bailey enjoys a broad general civil litigation practice spanning casualty and medical malpractice defense, general business litigation, personal injury, domestic relations and estate matters. In addition to appearing before the local courts, Bailey has litigated cases before appellate courts at both the state and federal levels, where she has had the opportunity to brief cases and participate in oral arguments before various panels of judges.

Bailey earned her Juris Doctor from Loyola University New Orleans College of Law in 2008 where she was a Moot Court staff member and served as the practicum editor for the Loyola Law Review Board. Prior to obtaining her J.D., Bailey earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Louisiana State University. While at LSU, Bailey was an active member of Phi Mu Sorority and a three-year member of the LSU Golden Girls dance line.

Her other achievements include:

- Having her Law Review Comment published in the Spring 2008 edition of the Loyola Law Review.
- Receiving the Samuel R. Exnicios Moot Court Award for placing fourth overall in the 2006 Loyola Moot Court Competition.
- Being named to the Loyola Moot Court Evidence Team and participating and placing in the Top 16 at the Jerome Prince Memorial Evidence Competition at Brooklyn Law School.
- Graduating magna cum laude from Loyola University College of Law and receiving the William L. Crowe, Sr., Scholar designation.

Bailey is a member of the Louisiana and 22nd Judicial District Court Bar Associations, the 22nd Judicial District Inn of Court and the Junior League of Covington.

A native of Covington, Bailey makes her home in Abita Springs with her husband, Ryan, and their two sons.

Louisiana State University (B.A., Summa Cum Laude, 2005) | Loyola University New Orleans College of Law (J.D., Magna Cum Laude, 2008)